Comments

I declare that I am currently a member of the Moroccan Society of Anesthesia, Analgesia and Intensive Care, and of ESICM. These appointments are scientific and professional in nature, and I do not hold any leadership or decision-making roles that would conflict with the responsibilities of Regional Representative of Africa

Details on your candidature

I am honored to apply for the position of Regional Representative of Africa at the European Society of Intensive Care Medicine (ESICM). As an Associate Professor of Anesthesia and Intensive Care at Mohammed VI University of Science and Health in Casablanca, Morocco, and Head of the Pediatric Intensive Care Unit at the International University Hospital Cheikh Khalifa Ibn Zaid, I have combined clinical expertise, academic leadership, and international collaboration in ways that I believe align closely with ESICM's mission. I hold a Doctor of Medicine degree from the Faculty of Medicine of Rabat (2005), followed by a residency in anesthesia, analgesia, and intensive care in Casablanca (2007–2011). Over the years, I have pursued advanced certifications in France and Morocco, including transthoracic echocardiography (Bordeaux, 2013), post-operative congenital heart disease resuscitation (Bordeaux, 2018), and ECMO training for both pediatric and adult patients. My expertise spans pediatric anesthesia, congenital heart disease, echocardiography, and pain medicine.

My academic trajectory at UM6SS (Assistant Professor in 2017, promoted to Associate Professor in 2022) has allowed me to train medical students, residents, and fellows, while also developing curricula in simulation-based learning and medical pedagogy. As Head of the PICU, I have led a multidisciplinary team managing critically ill children, integrating evidence-based care with innovative approaches adapted to the African context. ESICM's commitment to excellence in intensive care medicine resonates strongly with my professional journey.

As a Regional Representative of Africa, I would work to:

Strengthen the voice of African intensivists within ESICM, fostering inclusivity and exchange.

Develop training programs and workshops adapted to regional needs, particularly in pediatric intensive care and advanced technologies such as ECMO and ultrasound.

Promote collaborative research addressing regional priorities, including perioperative safety, sepsis, and pediatric outcomes.

Facilitate capacity-building and networking between African centers and European institutions to reduce disparities in intensive care delivery.
