International career in the UK 2008–2012. Locum consultant in Anaesthesia and Intensive Care.

Details on your candidature

25 years of experience in Intensive Care, both nationally and internationally. Main areas of interest including research projects – neuroICU, brain perfusion and autoregulation, sepsis, microcirculatory injury, and organ donation.

Teaching experience since 2012 in the Lithuanian University of Health Sciences Intensive Care Department, currently acting as the head of the Department and Associate Professor. Active member of several working groups within the Ministry of Health of the Republic of Lithuania in Intensive Care and Organ donation. Special interest in quality and effectiveness. One of the initiators of the DCD model in Lithuania.

Working as a National representative in the ESICM Council, I would like to represent ICU specialists from the smaller countries and be involved in unifying training requirements and service quality across Europe. Also, I believe that expanding the geography of hosting the biggest international events, such as ESICM Live, may add to the promotion of the Specialty and expand an active circle of members of our Organization.
